PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Well I hope most of you have dodged the winter ills and if not then I trust you are on the improve.

The cold and wet has seemed to be the first comment of conversation but it is winter after all.

I was pleased to see a good roll up of members for the AGM and thank those members who have taken on a position for the next twelve months. However we still have a Vice President position to fill.

The committee met at the Clare Airport on the following Wednesday night to plan for the next calendar of events.

So please check to see what we have and be involved if you can.

The first coming up will be the Crystal Brook Show on Saturday August 13th.

Then on Sunday 28th August the Presentation Dinner will be held at Port Pirie.

On one of our wintery Friday nights Moranne and I attended the AGM of the Kapunda Chapter.

They are a busy group headed by Chairperson Irene Woodcock .

So keep warm and well and see you at our next meeting.

Ian Radford

The show will have all the usual attractions/events running throughout the day, to keep everyone entertained. A special feature of the show will be the lunch stop of the SA Variety Club Bash. All the cars will be parked on the old Picnic Grounds next to the show, where everyone is welcome to walk down and view the display. Here the crews will be having their BBQ lunch and the cars washed, time permitting they can also visit the show. They then head off through the show grounds on the last leg of the bash, finishing in Clare.

Please come along with your cars and join in this great event. We are also keen to promote young people in older cars by taking photos to use in local newspapers, our newsletter, face book and web pages. Hope you can help.

Many Thanks,

While staying in Angaston, we attended the Doddridge Blacksmith Shop and the Heritage Walk in the main street, both listed events on the history month calendar, plus meeting up with friends and taking in as many of the other sights in neighbouring towns as we could. Wineries, Old Pubs, Maggie Beers, Antique Shops, Old Book shops, Bakeries, Car shows etc. Even if the weather was cold, windy & wet, it didn't matter! We set one day aside to visit Kapunda and attend their swap meet, held at the local trotting track.

So glad we did! Not a great one for going to swap meets, but this one fitted in well with our other plans. Following signs to the track made it easy, seeing cars parked on both sides of the roads would lead you to think that parking would be a problem, but it wasn't. Turned out that there was plenty of spaces inside the grounds, cars and people everywhere. Robyn was kept busy at some of the other market stalls, buying from and talking with her friends and so leaving me free to wander around the swap meet stalls. Had to walk around twice as they were set out on the inside & outside of the track, all the way around. The number and variety of items up for sale seemed good to me. One chap had a EK sedan up for grabs asking $6,900 (ono). Ended up picking up that EK bonnet I had been chasing for some time, $30 bargain price, even the same colour, very happy. Great day fine but windy, well done!
Love visiting our country towns.. :)

WOOLGANGI CAMPOUT WEEKEND 10th – 13th June

A great weekend was had by all attendees, with no small thanks due to our gracious hosts Ian and Sue Warnes.

First to arrive on Friday afternoon were Cossy and Jules, having brought the monster Dodge and its towed mobile palace in from Yunta. Ian wasted no time in pressing Cossy in to service, gathering firewood and putting up coloured lights around the veranda. Next to arrive was John convoy of vehicles appeared next, led by the Burgess's and including Fiedlers, Thomas's and Fran B. Later Friday arrivals were John and Joan Reed and the Goodies, resplendent in their new spoofy ute.

*Three wise men plus one!!!
Cossy, Ian Warnes, John Birrell, Craig Thomas*

A communal barbecue at the shearer's quarters fed the masses and then all retired to the "recreation room", more appropriately called the "wreck room", where much laughter went well into the night while keeping warm by the open fire and perhaps aided by an occasional drink or three.

Saturday morning was a slow start for most (surprise, surprise!) while waiting for the remaining arrivals. Peter Eaton, the Porters, Malcolm Johncock, Trevor Altus, the Milobara family and Barry Treloar and Judy O'Shaughnessy completed the party. After a DIY lunch Ian conducted a tour and history lesson about the Warnes family's connection with Woolgangi. Given that the land and vast amounts of country adjoining have been at some time in the Warnes clan since 1898, there is a lot of history

2 wrecks? Darkie and John Reed

! Suffice to say that Ian's grandfather was the eldest boy of five and a dedicated sheep man. Ian's father Les, however, had no time for sheep or dogs and worked as a mechanic in Burra. It fell on Ian to be trained by his grandfather to take over as the sheep man and that's been his life's work to date. Continued over

Ian is a conservationist at heart, and after the three-year drought of the mid 2,000's he took the bold step of totally de-stocking Woolgangi, waging war on boxthorn (to the extent of some 15,000 bushes on the claypans) and experimenting with ripped lines to catch wind-blown seed and hold runoff water. The amount of native pasture revegetation is a credit to the success of his trials, and is particularly impressive when the extent of this rehabilitation is seen from the air.

Ian's tour included the history of the many vehicles still on the property (well used to say the least!) and the rubbish dump over the road was also carefully checked out by many. The story of the homestead and how it grew over the decades, the numerous outbuildings and the additional residences is a fascinating insight to the workings of a sheep property over the decades. Accommodation had to be provided for the cook, governess, house maids, station hands as well as the itinerant shearers. To this day the kitchen is a separate building across the veranda from the main house – a standard precaution against the possibility of a house fire from the wood stove. Woolgangi was a village in its own right!

Sue had cooked up a feast for all on Saturday night, with Pumpkin Soup, Lamb Rogan Josh and her legendary Chicken Casserole, served in the shearer's kitchen and savoured by all. After second helpings we were all too topped up to tackle the sweets! The campfire and "wreck room" both were the scene of much laughter, storytelling, confessions and world problem solving – perhaps helped again by the occasional drink.

Sunday morning dawned bright and cold –VERY cold as it turned out. If drinks hadn't been in the fridge they would have frozen in the -3 degrees frost. Cars looked like they were covered in snow, the frost was that deep. It took until mid-morning to get everyone thawed out in time for the Sunday service conducted by Joan Reed around the campfire. Ian then led the driving tour to places of historic interest on Woolgangi, including watering points, settler's houses, underground cellars and the amazing differences in vegetation within 20 kilometres or so. A bush barbecue lunch was cooked over a fire at the “four bricks” picnic ground close to the Eastern boundary of Woolgangi. Ian had even catered well for the girls by taking out a toilet trailer earlier in the day. Another abandoned homestead was visited on the way home, with its history outlined by Ian.

Sunday night’s meal was a NARC special roast around the campfire, with many helpers contributing their skills and equipment, and capped off with Sue’s fruit with cream and ice cream: – Golden North, of course!

Then there were many more tales told around the fire and much merriment resulting. A few examples from memory -

Ken Porter told of many years ago losing his children at the Jamestown Show. When Jan suggested that perhaps she should go and look for them, Ken’s reply was “No, let’s just go home and make some new ones.” Jan countered by telling of a recent check-up at the doctor’s where she was given a clean bill of health, and also told that her pregnancy of 26 weeks was progressing well. Wrong computer screen! Darkie told of shearing sheep that were more like wombats, it was revealed that Cossy sounded like an emu on an official police video recording (enough said) and Pauleen’s classic question “Are all the taps water?” Of course John Reed didn’t make any more effort than usual to be a constant source of entertainment.

Cossy rose to the occasion on Monday morning when he wandered around asking for contributions of herbs and spices, which when blended with the left-overs from the previous night made a fantastic recovery breakfast for those up early enough to partake. The campers then packed up and departed at their own pace, all in agreement that it had been another great NARC campout weekend.

To sum it all up:- Wonderfully contrasting scenery, fascinating history, pleasant weather (even the frost), beautiful sunsets, food to die for, great facilities, time to enjoy the fellowship of NARC and most of all, the privilege of having Ian and Sue share their family story with us.

- Max and John Birrell

Thank you Ian and Sue.

A VISIT TO THE PARKER MUSEUM by the Kapunda Chapter

Swiss born Louis Chevrolet who developed his motoring skills at Beaune in France founded the Chevrolet Motor Company in the USA in 1911 along with Durant et al..

Sorry but I am digressing. This is about our Club visit to Eric Parker's Chev. collection at Nuriootpa on 10th July.

While the collection was located in several sheds around Nuriootpa, the principle one was on Greenock Road which incidentally houses Eric's fine collection of ARIEL square 4 motor cycles'

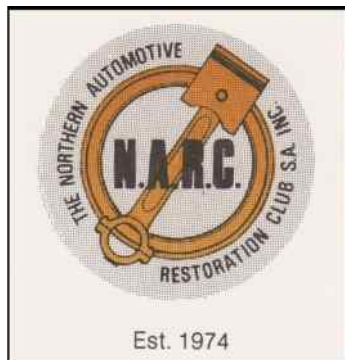

For a non Chevy cognoscenti it was a real eye opener. The cars varied from fully restored, to in work and waiting for restoration.. An enjoyable time was had by all.

The day was capped off with lunch at the Vine Inn.

Brian Woodcock.
